A Whiter Shade Of Pale by Procol Harum

vve (1) a light randango	As the miller (11) his tale
Turned cartwheels 'cross the floor	That her face, at (12) (13) ghostly
I was feeling (2) of seasick	Turned a whiter (14) of pale
(But the) crowd (3) out for more	She (15) there is no reason
The room was humming harder	And the truth is (16) to see
As the ceiling flew away	But I (17) (18) my
When we called out for (4) drink	playing cards
The waiter (5) a tray	Would not let her be
And so it was that later	One of sixteen vestal virgins
As the miller told his tale	Who were (19) for the coast
That her face at first (6) ghostly	At the moment my (20) were open
Turned a (7) shade of pale	They might just as well have been closed
She said, I'm home on shore leave	And so it was that later
Though in truth we were at sea	As the (21) his tale
So I (8) her by the (9) glass	That her face at (23) just ghostly
And would not let her be	Turned a whiter shade of pale
Saying, you must be the mermaid	And so it was that later
Who took neptune for a ride	As the miller told his tale
But she smiled at me so sadly	That her face at first just ghostly
That my anger (10) died	Turned a whiter shade of pale
And so it was that later
