

Fill in the gaps

Rose Of England by Chris De Burgh

| Hear my (1) and listen well, and a story I will tell, | Oh my heart, oh my heart; |
|--|---|
| How duty brought a (2) heart, and why a love | To the abbey she did ride, (14) her lover by her |
| so strong | side, |
| Must fall apart; | When they heard the (15) (16) |
| She was lovely, she was fine, (3) of a | ring, she was Queen |
| royal line, | And one day, he'd be King; |
| He, no equal, but for them it (4) | But men of malice, men of hate, protesting to her chambers |
| (5) for they were in love; | came, |
| Rose of England, sweet and fair, shining with the sun, | "A (17) prince will have (18) |
| Rose of England, have a care, for where the thorn is, | hand, for he'll bring peace |
| There the blood (6) run; | And (19) to our land;" |
| Oh my heart, oh my heart; | She said, "Do you tell me that I (20) wed the |
| Through the summer days and nights, stolen kisses and | one I love? |
| delights | Do you tell me that I am not (21) of my |
| Would (7) their hearts and fill (8) | heart?" |
| dreams with all emotions | And so with heavy weight of life she kissed her |
| That true love can bring; | (22) one last time, |
| But (9) of mourning came one day, when her | "This land I wed, and no man comes, for if I cannot have you, |
| sister passed away, | I'll have none;" |
| And many said on bended knee, she has gone, and you | Rose of England, (23) and fair, shining with the |
| (10) be our Queen; | sun, |
| Rose of England, sweet and fair, (11) with | Rose of England have a care, for where the thorn is, |
| the sun, | There the (24) (25) run; |
| Rose of England, (12) a care, for where the thorn | Oh my heart, oh my heart. |
| is, | |
| There the (13) will run: | |

1. voice

- 2. broken
- 3. daughter
- 4. mattered
- 5. little
- 6. will
- 7. thrill
- 8. their
- 9. black
- 10. must
- 11. shining
- 12. have
- 13. blood
- 14. with
- 15. church
- 16. bells
- 17. foreign
- 18. your
- 19. riches
- 20. cannot
- 21. mistress
- 22. lover
- 23. sweet
- 24. blood
- 25. will

Fill in the gaps