A Spoon Full Of Sugar by Julie Andrews

| in every job that must be done         |    | He knows  |
|--|----|---|
| There is an element of fun             |    | A song  |
| You (1) the fun and, snap              |    | Will move the job along                             |
| The job's a game                       |    | For a spoonful of (14) (15) the                     |
| And every (2) you undertake            |    | (16) go down  |
| Becomes a (3) of cake                  |    | The medicine go down                                |
| A lark, a spree                        |    | Medicine go down                                    |
| It's (4) clear to see                  |    | Just a spoonful of sugar helps the medicine go down |
| That a spoonful of sugar helps the (5) | go | In a (17) delightful way                            |
| down                                   |    | The honeybees that (18) the nector                  |
| The medicine go down                   |    | From the flower to the comb                         |
| Medicine go down                       |    | Never tire of ever buzzing to and fro               |
| Just a (6) of (7)                      |    | Because they take a (19) nip                        |
| (8) the medicine go down               |    | Fom (20) flower that (21) sip                       |
| In a most delightful way               |    | And hence (and hence)                               |
| A robin feathering his nest            |    | They find (they find)                               |
| Has (9) (10) (11)                      | to | Their task is not a grind                           |
| rest                                   |    |   |
| While (12) his bits of twine and twig  |    |   |
| Though quite intent in his pursuit     |    |   |
| He has a merry (13) to toot            |    |   |
